DOC An Italian designation that verifies a certain wine possesses strict quality merits that protect the global reputation of the wine

DOCG The gold medal for Italian wines, these are “DOC” wines whose quality is held to an even higher standard and verified by a panel of Italian government-certified tasters

AOC To earn this highly coveted label, a French wine must pass a rigorous set of quality checks, often considered the strictest in the world. These top tier wines’ production quantities are very small and highly controlled by law
